

SINCE 1952

209 WEST 38TH STREET

209 WEST 38TH STREET

Initially known as the Bien Building, upon its completion in 1910 under the supervision of the architect Frank J. Helmle, 209 West 38th Street became known as the Art Color Building, named after the Art Color Printing Company, who was a major tenant until 1924.

The 12-story, 160,000 square foot office building is home to numerous big names in fashion including Urban Outfitters, Puma and Carhartt who have their offices here.

Only one block away, Non Solo Piada offers fresh and delicious high-quality Italian street food in a lovely ambiance. Order an espresso in true Italian style at their breakfast counter. Located in the renowned Garment District and only steps from Times Square, the building is close to many subway lines as well as a variety of amenities.

GARMENT DISTRICT

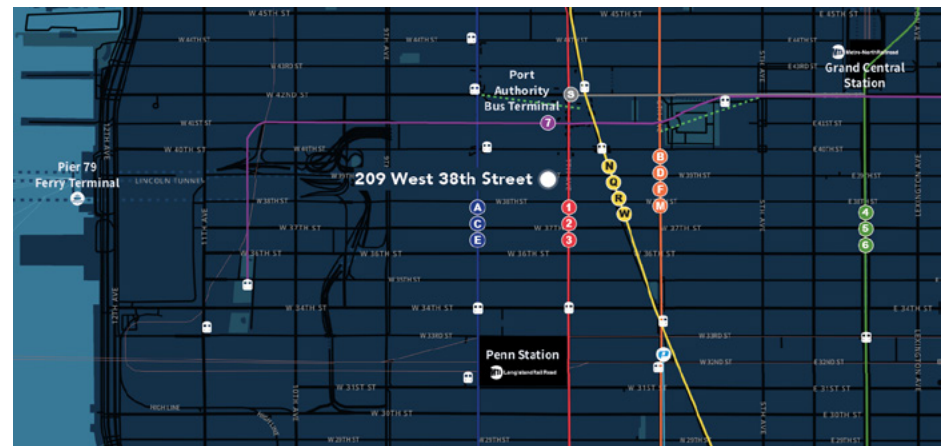

The Garment District lies at the heart of the commuter triangle, marked by Penn Station, Grand Central Station and Port Authority Terminal. Situated between Fifth Avenue and Ninth Avenue, from 34th to 42nd Streets, this area is also known as the Fashion District. It has rich history as home to showrooms, fashion design and production houses, as well as garment wholesalers. Well-known labels like Carolina Herrera, Calvin Klein and Donna Karan among others all maintain a collection of showrooms, production centers and offices in the area.

Even with its rich history in fashion, the economics of manufacturing have changed over the years, so the district has seen an influx of other businesses, including media, creative agencies, law firms and tech. Even so, local sample sales still prove popular with workers and residents.

Art plays a vital role in the area with Space for Public Art – a street-level space for local artists and designers to grab the attention of passers-by. For a mix of art and café culture, MacarOn Café and Café Grumpy are popular destinations.

For mainstream retail all needs are met at 34th Street and Herald Square. Bryant Park to the east offers open space and seating to meet and relax, alongside the stunning New York Public Library's main building and its 50 million-plus catalog.

The major transportation hubs at Penn Station, Moynihan Train Hall, and Times Square serve the Garment District, with access to 1,2,3,A,C,E,N,Q,R and W trains, plus connection to New Jersey Transit, Amtrak, and Long Island Rail Road. Metro-North Railroad can be accessed from Grand Central Terminal.
