322 EIGHTH AVENUE

322 EIGHTH AVENUE

322 Eighth Avenue was originally built in 1925 by the architects George & Edward Blum in a neo-gothic style. A recent restoration preserved its historic features, while introducing an efficient, modern business environment.

In 2015 the building entrance and façade were completely remodeled with a cohesive glass storefront giving the building a cleaner, more expansive look. The main entrance is articulated by a sculptural awning, fabricated by Kammetal in Williamsburg, Brooklyn. Thin aluminum bands smoothly extend from store signage, attractively disguising ventilation louvers, and twisting into a rounded canopy to lure visitors inside.

The refurbished building has an elegant marble lobby and dramatic, vaulted ceiling. Five high speed passenger elevators have been upgraded to afford quick service to the building's 21 floors.

Dominating the lobby and complementing its distinctive decor is a stunning period mural. Painted in the style of the renowned American artist, Thomas Hart Benton, it has been expertly restored by a specialist from the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

322 Eighth Avenue sits at an outstanding location convenient to many amenities and transport links.

CHELSEA

Bound by the Hudson River and Sixth Avenue, Chelsea stretches from 14th Street towards 34th Street.

Home to the High Line, which runs the length of Chelsea and more, a new energy has been injected into West Chelsea. The popular elevated walkway extends to 34th Street and 12th Avenue at Hudson Yards. An impressive mixed-use collection of skyscrapers, parks and plazas being built over the 28-acre West Side Rail Yard crowns Chelsea's border with Midtown West as one of the most ambitious engineering and construction projects ever seen in the city.

One of the larger neighborhoods in Manhattan, Chelsea offers a mix of architectural styles and atmospheres. Its wide avenues are filled with retail, offices, dining and apartment blocks, built on a dramatic scale. A fine pre-war example is Google's East Coast headquarters located at 111 Eighth Avenue, which occupies the full block between Eighth and Ninth Avenues, from 15th to 16th Street.

Chelsea Market on Ninth Avenue has dozens of eateries and artisanal retailers. Other area favorites include Buddakan, Bottino, Cookshop and Worthwild. In the evenings, Peter McManus Café hosts happy hour for beer with one of their famous burgers, while Bathtub Gin on Ninth serves cocktails in a more upscale speakeasy setting.

Chelsea is served by 1, 2 and 3 trains along Seventh Avenue, A, C and E trains along Eighth Avenue and F and M trains along Sixth Avenue. To the south the L train terminal at 14th Street takes passengers east across town and to Brooklyn, to the north the Hudson Yards station provides access to 7 trains, while Penn Station and the Moynihan Train Hall connect hundreds of thousands of passengers to commuter and Amtrak service.
