This building stands 7 stories tall and encompasses 156,000 square feet featuring a recently renovated building lobby. The building's loft-like spaces feature high ceilings and large windows offering an abundance of natural light.

NOHO

The neighborhood north of Houston Street and bounded by Broadway to the west and Bowery to the east stretches half a mile to the north to East 9th Street. Once home to New York's elite and their palatial mansions, Noho has again become a haven for some of today's biggest names. They make their homes in immaculately renovated loft spaces, new high-rise glass towers and boutique buildings designed by the likes of Herzog & de Meuron, whose 40 Bond Street with its graffiti gate has become an architectural landmark over the last decade.

The neighborhood caters to its residents with a mix of upscale bars and restaurants and more casual eateries and bars. Favorites include the B Bar & Grill with its lively bar scene and patio, and Bond Street for impeccable sushi in a slick setting. Coffee shops like La Colombe cater for the workday crowds, students and tourists alike.

Home to Cooper Union, the private college known for art, architecture and engineering, creative names of the future fill the streets between class, just as Andy Warhol, Jean-Michel Basquiat and Robert Mapplethorpe did before them. Cooper Union's Italianate Foundation Building dates back to the 1850s and is a major landmark in the area, as is its striking sister building with its undulating ultra-modern curves situated on the neighborhood's border with the East Village.

Office space mingles with the residential lofts, dining and retail and a number of landmarked turn-of-the century office buildings. Tenants in the area include NYU, Facebook, Virgin USA and prestigious publisher Phaidon.

Subway access is provided by B, D, F, M, 4 and 6 trains as well being in close proximity to the N, Q, R and W trains at 8th Street.
